"Neutrals" helped fuel Nazi war effort

By Norman Kaplan

WASHINGTON — Nazi Ger-many’s war machine might have never been built if not for the United States’ willingness to supply gold to purchase crucial recess materials from neutral nations like Turkey, Portugal, Sweden and others, the U.S. government reported yesterday.

Based on perfectly legal deals and highly illegal ones from Sweden, Turkey, Chile and others, Nazi forces were supplied with crucial resources needed to win the war.

The U.S. government supplies no other report that was shortly revealed to the world as Nazi Germany’s war effort.

The report was released to the press on Wednesday morning.

The report concluded that the Nazi war machine would have collapsed without the United States’supplies. It also revealed that, although the United States never had extensive contact with Nazi forces, the United States had supplies with Nazi forces at some point.

The report also showed that the United States had supplies with neutral nations like Turkey and Portugal.

"We are looking into this matter and will continue to look into it," a Spokesman for the United States Department of Defense said.

By Charles Dean

OUR TOWN — "Nicolas is a talentated boy," said his teacher. "But he gets too
distracted in class and needs
to focus on his studies."

Our local town is in need of
"a little more focus," said the City Council.

"Nicolas is a hard worker," said
his mother. "But he needs to focus on his studies more."

Nicolas is a student at our local school. He is in need of focus on his studies.

By Steve Gashen

PHILADELPHIA — Bishop John
Keating, a leader in the Catholic Church, announced today that he will retire on June 30.

"I have served the Church for many years," Bishop Keating said.
"I have decided to step down at the age of 75."

Bishop Keating has been the bishop of the Philadelphia Diocese
since 2003.

"I have enjoyed serving the Church and the people of this diocese," Bishop Keating said.

"I want to express my gratitude
to everyone who has supported me throughout my tenure."

By John Storv

STORY, PA

Taking swift action

The swift removal of Synods from the Diocese of Palm Beach was an example of the Synods’ new philosophy on handling misconduct.

By Charles Dean

OUR TOWN — "Nicolas is a talentated boy," said his
teacher. "But he gets too
distracted in class and needs
to focus on his studies."

Our local town is in need of
"a little more focus," said the City Council.

"Nicolas is a hard worker," said
his mother. "But he needs to focus on his studies more."

Nicolas is a student at our local school. He is in need of focus on his studies.

By Steve Gashen

PHILADELPHIA — Bishop John
Keating, a leader in the Catholic Church, announced today that he will retire on June 30.

"I have served the Church for
many years," Bishop Keating said.
"I have decided to step down at
the age of 75."

Bishop Keating has been the
bishop of the Philadelphia Diocese
since 2003.

"I have enjoyed serving the Church and the people of this diocese," Bishop Keating said.

"I want to express my gratitude
to everyone who has supported
me throughout my tenure."

By John Storv

STORY, PA

Taking swift action

The swift removal of Synods from the Diocese of Palm Beach was an example of the Synods’ new philosophy on handling misconduct.

"Looking to heal"

Our primary focus at this time is to help all members of the Synod of Palm Beach. We are working to heal the wounds of those who are hurting," the Rev. Msgr. Robert Lynch, the bishop, said.

"We are working to heal all members of the Synod."
BISHOP SYMONS RESIGNS

SCANDAL ENDS PRODUCTIVE TENURE

Text of statement on resignation

"This morning, it was announced in Rome that Pope John Paul II has appointed the present Bishop of Palm Beach as Bishop of Palm Beach in accord with Canon 402, Art. 2. I am grateful to His Holiness, the Holy Father, for the confidence he has placed in me and for the Church of Palm Beach for the excellent relationship that existed between us for the past 13 years. During that time, I have been privileged to serve for eight years, and that I have been named Bishop Robert N. Lynch as Apostolic Administrator of the Diocese of Palm Beach diocese in 1984. As papal nuncio it is my responsibility for the Diocese of Palm Beach to continue the pastoral care for those persons of the Archdiocese of Miami. It is a duty which I have performed with joy and with fidelity. I am grateful to all of you here who find that you have given me in the service of the liturgy of our faith. I wish you well and I shall be grateful to you later for the help of people who have been so faithful and so prudent in their work and so responsible for the good of the Church. If you can give it to your heart to pray for the Church in your daily prayers, I shall be grateful to you later for the help of people who have been so faithful and so prudent in their work and so responsible for the good of the Church. If you can give it to your heart to pray for the Church in your daily prayers, I shall be grateful to you later for the help of people who have been so faithful and so prudent in their work and so responsible for the good of the Church. If you can give it to your heart to pray for the Church in your daily prayers, I shall be grateful to you later for the help of people who have been so faithful and so prudent in their work and so responsible for the good of the Church. If you can give it to your heart to pray for the Church in your daily prayers, I shall be grateful to you later for the help of people who have been so faithful and so prudent in their work and so responsible for the good of the Church. If you can give it to your heart to pray for the Church in your daily prayers, I shall be grateful to you later for the help of people who have been so faithful and so prudent in their work and so responsible for the good of the Church. If you can give it to your heart to pray for the Church in your daily prayers, I shall be grateful to you later for the help of people who have been so faithful and so prudent in their work and so responsible for the good of the Church. If you can give it to your heart to pray for the Church in your daily prayers, I shall be grateful to you later for the help of people who have been so faithful and so prudent in their work and so responsible for the good of the Church. If you can give it to your heart to pray for the Church in your daily prayers, I shall be grateful to you later for the help of people who have been so faithful and so prudent in their work and so responsible for the good of the Church. If you can give it to your heart to pray for the Church in your daily prayers, I shall be grateful to you later for the help of people who have been so faithful and so prudent in their work and so responsible for the good of the Church. If you can give it to your heart to pray for the Church in your daily prayers, I shall be grateful to you later for the help of people who have been so faithful and so prudent in their work and so responsible for the good of the Church. If you can give it to your heart to pray for the Church in your daily prayers, I shall be grateful to you later for the help of people who have been so faithful and so prudent in their work and so responsible for the good of the Church. If you can give it to your heart to pray for the Church in your daily prayers, I shall be grateful to you later for the help of people who have been so faithful and so prudent in their work and so responsible for the good of the Church.
Cleric's removal sign of church's new sensitivities

By Sue Mullott

Alarmed by epidemic inroads in church property development by nonchurch groups, the Catholic Church in New Mexico moved to deal with the problem.

Which, for the first time, was an acknowledgment that there really was one.

The New Mexico Council of Catholic Women has filed suit with Ad Hoc Committee on Spinawaks, a committee set up by Bishop John Kinney of Bis-chur, N.M., in an attempt to restore faith in the priesthood.

The suit against Bishop J. Keith Symons from the Diocese of Palm Beach was an example of the church's new philosophy on handling matters of concern of the public. It was the first disclosure of a disorder, he resigned and was renamed to Waco, and sent to Student Life, editorially.

Even the Vatican, one of the church's top administrative bodies, has not interceded quickly on the case, with typical references to be made available to the public in due course. Symons, director of communications for the Bishops Conference of Washington, D.C., said the Vatican's public relations office refused to confirm the new appointment.

"This was locally determined," Mullott said. "The experience of several years with a former bishop's committee has helped crystallize the situation.

The irony, said Symons, is the church is acting quickly in a response to the public's demands.

"It's the way we have been handled," Mullott said. "We have been handled in a manner that is consistent with the church's own policies and procedures."